Geno's. Joey Vento

▶ One of Vento's old pals, Joey "Pony" Amato, praised his friend's work ethic yesterday.

Giving Joey a goodbye wit' love

A day after South Philly steak baron Joey Vento died, friends came to his neon-lit shop on South Ninth Street to remember him. Known locally for charity and nationally for conservative hypocrisy, everyone agreed he worked his butt off. {page 02}

Vento: 'Hard-headed' but 'great boss'

When Joey Vento had a scare last year with colorectal cancer, "he never missed a day of work. Came out of the hospital Saturday and came back to work on Monday," family friend Joey "Pony" Amato said yesterday at Vento's world-famous Geno's Steaks.

The cheesesteak baron, who died Tuesday from a massive heart attack at age 71, remained as hard-working as he was controversial in recent years.

"He was a hard-headed bastard," Amato said. "Came in to work at 4 a.m. till 11 a.m. the day he died. Never told anyone how he was feeling."

Vento opened Geno's in 1966 across from Pat's King of Steaks. He was known for his support of conservative causes and the city police department. The Independence Hall Tea Party Association yesterday called him "a great friend of the conservative cause and the Tea Party movement."

JOSEPH KACZMAREK/METRO

"I was a costumer when he opened in 1966, and I worked here as soon as I was old enough," Geno's manager Jimmy Reds said. "He was a great boss."

Reading Viaduct park finally rising

- Conversion of abandoned, elevated railroad in Callowhill gains traction
- Oversight group created
- Design firm has received William Penn grant

After nearly a decade of speculation surrounding its future, the Reading Viaduct is finally seeing signs of life.

"I'm enthusiastic about the way things have been going lately, especially with the opening of [New York City's] High Line park," said John Struble of the Reading Viaduct Project. "More people are seeing what you can do with an old railroad, so there's a lot of movement."

The Center City District secured grant funding two weeks ago to conduct a schematic study of the viaduct's SEPTA-owned portion, which stretches from Callowhill to 13th streets.

"It's a place everyone has been so anxious for years to see become the neighborhood green space," said Bryan Haynes, whose design firm is conducting the study. "This neighborhood is really lacking in any kind of parks or open spaces."

Haynes is in the process of soliciting input at a series of public meetings and hopes to have a viable final design in the next five months. "The support the community has shown so far and the interest of so many different people in the city make it likely it's all going to come together relatively quickly," he said.

The renovation of the SEPTA spur is expected to be completed by 2013 at the earliest and will cost between $3 million and $5 million, most of which will be funded by grants.

RIKARD LARMA/METRO

▶ The rest of the viaduct is owned by California-based Reading International, who has not yet come to an agreement with neighborhood groups regarding its use.

Raising park cash

The designation of the Callowhill Reading Viaduct Neighborhood Improvement District, sponsored by Councilman Frank DiCicco, will create an organization that can raise funds by taxing residents within its boundaries and applying for grant money.

"The genesis of the CRVNID is twofold," said Paul Levy of the Center City District. "The first phase is to help the neighborhood itself with things like street cleaning and safety, but we also want have in place a mechanism so that when the viaduct development is successful, we can raise funds." METRO/AW

"One of the biggest challenges in New York after they created the High Line was that they didn't have a stable funding source, so they're planning ahead here."

All aboard, measles

PHILADELPHIA. Measles inspections are recommended for passengers who traveled on an Amtrak train from Boston to Virginia last week.

The Virginia Department of health recently released a statement that a man infected with measles boarded Amtrak Northeast Regional No. 171 in Philadelphia on Aug. 17.

The train made stops in New York City, Philadelphia, Maryland and Washington, D.C., before reaching its destination in Lynchburg, Va. The VDH said those who left the train before its arrival in Philadelphia should not be concerned.

SEPTA takes fare overhaul to riders

Wants to know what riders think Agency unsure best way for new technology on widespread rail system

With questions still remaining about how SEPTA's new fare system will look on Regional Rail lines, an advisory group has recommended a two-way gated system that would require riders to pay entering and leaving five stations in Center City.

SEPTA expects to award a contract for its new smart-card system in the fall. The system, which will eliminate tokens and paper transfers, will be straightforward for buses, trolleys and subways — but SEPTA hopes to make the Regional Rail structure more uniform and convenient. Under the current proposals, Regional Rail riders would either pay when leaving Center City or they would pay leaving and entering.

▶ All aboard?

The advisory group says the one-way system would cause confusion and allow for fare evasion. It also suggests reducing the number of fare zones from the current six to three. Conductors would handle payment from riders who do not board or get off in Center City.

Riders can voice their opinion by visiting www.septa.org/npt and taking a brief survey for the next few weeks.

John McGee, SEPTA's chief officer of New Payment Technology, said the two-way system would cost about $3 million — but that SEPTA is still open to all ideas. "The more information we collect, the better it is," McGee said.

USS NJ sinking poor

NEW JERSEY. The USS New Jersey may sink financially if museums officials can't pry more funding from Gov. Chris Christie in the near future.

The most decorated battleship in U.S. history, which served in wars spanning five decades, needs $2.3 million more to reopen to the public, according to KYW Newsradio. It reported that the ship requires more money for maintenance and insurance.

"We got $32,500 [in state funding]," museum president Jim Schuck told KYW. "That barely covers the electric bill." METRO/YD

$1M price on Gaddafi's head as fighting goes on

Leader urges Libyan loyalists to continue battling ◗ Civilians hoping violence will end soon ◗ White House: Gaddafi's reign nearly done

Libya's new masters offered a million-dollar bounty for the fugitive Muammar Gaddafi yesterday, after he urged his men to fight on in battles across the capital.

A day after rebel forces overran his Tripoli headquarters and trashed symbols of his 42-year rule, scattered pockets of loyalist diehards kept the irregular fighters at bay as they hunted Gaddafi and his sons. Rebels also reported fighting deep in the desert and a standoff around Gaddafi's tribal home town.

In Tripoli, rockets and gunfire kept 2 million civilians indoors. Most were anxious but hopeful the war would soon end — and with it, worsening shortages of food, water and medical supplies for hundreds of wounded and for the sick.

"Gaddafi's forces and his accomplices will not stop resisting until Gaddafi is caught or killed," said Mustafa Abdel Jalil, head of the rebels' National Council, who offered amnesty to any of his entourage who killed the fallen strongman and announced a reward worth over $1 million for his capture.

"The end will only come when he's captured, dead or alive," Abdel Jalil said in the eastern rebel stronghold of Benghazi. REUTERS

On his way out

The White House said yesterday there was no sign yet that Gaddafi has let go of power, but repeated its view that he was on the way out.

"The developments that we're seeing are an indication the Gaddafi regime's 42-year grip on power in Libya is slipping," said White House spokesman Josh Earnest.

Hunt takes rebels in search of tunnels

When Libyan rebels stormed Muammar Gaddafi's compound in Tripoli, he was nowhere to be found. The hunt for the Libyan dictator may now take them underground.

Suspecting it might come to this, Gaddafi taunted North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies three months ago, saying in a May 13 speech: "I live in a place they cannot reach and where you cannot kill me."

Libyans have grown up on tales of an intricate network of air-conditioned 1970s-era secret passages, which were fortified in the aftermath of the 1986 U.S. bombing raid on Tripoli to provide an increasingly paranoid Gaddafi with a safe way out, according to Karim Mezran, a Libyan exile and a professor at Johns Hopkins University's School of Advanced International Studies in Bologna, Italy.

"Nobody visited these underground bunkers, but the information we got is that he has some tunnels leading from Bab al-Aziziyah to some other places like the airport and even Martyrs Square," Ibrahim Dabbashi, Libya's former deputy ambassador to the United Nations, told reporters yesterday. Biden not there to explain

Vice President Joe Biden said yesterday he "didn't come to explain a damn thing" on his visit to China, adding that the country's economy had become the world's second-biggest due to the stabilizing presence of U.S. troops in Asia.

He told U.S. troops at Japan's Yokota airbase that some media suggested that the purpose of his trip to China was to "explain our economic situation," but that wasn't a major focus of his private talks with Chinese leaders. BLOOMBERG

▶ For a while Jobs' often-gaunt appearance has sparked questions about his health and his ability to continue at Apple.

Steve Jobs resigns as Apple CEO

Amount Apple shares fell in extended trading.

17% The stock has climbed 17 percent this year, up from an adjusted $5.48 on Sept. 16, 1997, the day Jobs came back as CEO after leaving in '85.

Silicon Valley legend Steve Jobs relinquished the reins at Apple to right-hand man Tim Cook last night, after 14 years in command at a company he brought back from the brink and turned into the world's largest technology corporation.

Jobs, who fought and survived a rare form of pancreatic cancer and revolutionized the technology arena with the iPhone in 2007, is deemed the heart and soul of a company that he himself started in a garage in the late 1970s.

"I have always said if there ever came a day when I could no longer meet my duties and expectations as Apple's CEO, I would be the first to let you know," he said in a brief letter announcing his resignation. "Unfortunately, that day has come."

Quoted

"The big concern is 'Uh-oh, is this the end?' I think that would be clearly overblown."
KEVIN DEDE, ANALYST

A college dropout, a Buddhist and a son of adoptive parents, Jobs started Apple Computer with friend Steve Wozniak. The company soon introduced the Apple 1 computer. But it was the Apple II that became a huge success and gave Apple its position as a critical player in the then-nascent PC industry, culminating in a 1980 IPO that made Jobs a multimillionaire.

"I will say to investors: Don't panic and remain calm," said analyst Colin Gillis. REUTERS/BLOOMBERG

Hurricane heading for US

NEW YORK. Irene strengthened to a Category 3 major hurricane as it churned through the Bahamas yesterday on a path forecast to take it to North Carolina's Outer Banks and into New England.

The storm, with winds of 115 miles per hour, may cause "devastating damage," the National Hurricane Center said in an advisory. Evacuations began yesterday on the Outer Banks.

Irene is forecast to pass near the North Carolina coast on Saturday and then strike Long Island and Rhode Island on a path toward Boston early on Sunday, according to the center's projections. BLOOMBERG

THE WORD

Metro's Dorothy Robinson shares her take on the world of gossip @dorothyatmetro dorothy.robinson@metro.us

A new Cyrus baby

When I first saw this photo and the news item that the goth man in the picture is going to be a dad, I was like, "Marilyn Manson's demon seed passes on." But it turns out it's actually Miley Cyrus' brother, Trace Cyrus, 22, who has become the baby daddy to the unborn child of Disney's "The Suite Life of Zack & Cody" star Brenda Song, 23. That is a lot of tattoos for ol' Trace Cyrus, right? But honestly, I'd probably act out that badly if Billy Ray Cyrus were my dad, too.

Oh, and one more thing: Cyrus apparently has a Hot Topic-inspired clothing line called "Southern Made, Hollywood Paid." We do this to ourselves, America.

In Touch is in big trouble

Now that the new issue of In Touch — the tabloid that started the Will Smith and Jada Pinkett Smith split rumors — is actually out, let's see what it had to say, shall we?

Honestly, it's not much — just that Will walked in on Jada with her "HawthoRNe" co-star Marc Anthony. ... Wait! What?!

Yes! They claim Will left crying after catching Marc and Jada together in their family home. Gettin' jiggy with it, indeed.

For what it's worth, everyone involved is totally denying everything, with the Smiths even getting their legal team to possibly take action against the magazine.

Smith was probably just sobbing from the shock of seeing Anthony naked. Kidding! Kind of! This is all so crazy, it must be dreamed up by the "HawthoRNe" PR team just to remind all of us it's still on the air.

The feed ...

▶ Checking in with some of Hollywood's biggest names to see what they've been up to — in their own words, in 140 characters or fewer.

Today, Joel McHale doesn't like what he's become, Zach Braff wants to see more news stories, and Seth MacFarlane isn't a fan of scooters.

▶ @joelmchale
I found myself humming the "My Heart Will Go On" today. What the hell happened to me?

▶ @zachbraff
So much going on in the world. The 6 most popular stories on the Huffington Post are about Kim Kardashian. Color me confused.

▶ @SetMacFarlane
Disneyland may be the happiest place on earth, but it's also the most motorized wheelchairiest place on earth.

Catfights or no at memorial service?

Taylor Armstrong apparently invited her "Real Housewives of Beverly Hills" costars to the private memorial for her estranged husband, Russell, yesterday in Hollywood, RadarOnline.com reports. "A lot of thought and consideration went into Taylor's decision to invite the entire cast. In the end, Taylor didn't want to exclude anyone, and even though she doesn't get along with all of them, Taylor wanted them there. The girls have been very supportive to her throughout this entire tragedy.

DOROTHY ROBINSON'S WORD BLOG

Taylor needs her friends around her more than ever," a source close to the situation said.

I hope the ladies can keep it together enough not to have a fight at the memorial service. But you know, that might just be asking a little too much from them.

Talking points

Another actor in the family

Sarah Jessica Parker admits that James Wilkie, her 8-year-old son with husband Matthew Broderick, is itching to get into the family business and become an actor. "I don't want him to do it until after he goes to college," she tells Parade magazine. "But part of me thinks maybe it's better if he knows the truth now about how hard it is to be a working actor. I don't know if he grasps what it took to get us here."

▶ Sarah Jessica Parker and son James Wilkie Broderick

Carey to be on 'X-Factor'

It looks like Mariah Carey will be a part of the U.S. edition of "The X-Factor" after all, but she won't be sitting behind the judges' table, according to People magazine. "Mariah is definitely confirmed to be a part of 'X Factor,'" a source says, explaining that Carey will be a guest of a judge instead of a judge herself. "She is confirmed to tape something with Simon Cowell at the judge's homes."

Fox: Marilyn no more

Megan Fox says she's removing the massive portrait of Marilyn Monroe tattooed on her forearm because it caused "negative energy," according to Hollyscoop. "It's a negative character, as she suffered from personality disorders and was bipolar," Fox explains. "I do not want to attract this kind of negative energy in my life. I'm removing it." So does this mean her many other tattoos aren't safe either? "Who knows, maybe I'll remove the others too," she says. "But the laser hurts."

How will you survive the apocalypse?

Just in time for this week's earthquake, the TLC special 'Livin' for the Apocalypse' captures the lives of survivalists preparing for disaster

Financial collapse, and now an earthquake? Is this really happening? Not surprisingly, a growing sector of the population feels that, yes, the apocalypse is well on the way — and they're taking every precaution to be ready for it.

Take, for example, survivalist Dr. Stirling Silverman (this is his pen name — he will not give us his real name for security reasons), who is featured in the TLC special, "Livin' for the Apocalypse." Since the 1980s, Silverman has been stockpiling food, water, weaponry, silver — you name it — in an undisclosed location in Missouri in preparation for government or environmental failure.

Tune in:

'Livin' for the Apocalypse' airs Sunday at 10 p.m. on TLC.

"In the late '80s … I became aware that the government was just not going to be prepared for social security because they were spending the money that we were paying in," he says. "Anybody who can do the math understands that the baby boomers are a large group of people. … You're going to have less people paying into the system and then you're going to have all these baby boomers that are expecting to get their retirement money from social security. I think it's criminally negligent that our politicians did not foresee this thing coming."

Expecting the possibilities of "social unrest, economic collapse and hyperinflation," Silverman began collecting silver, which may be handy to have if the dollar collapses completely.

Think that sounds extreme? Consider the reasons why you're reading this article right now, or why a show called "Livin' for the Apocalypse" was made in the first place.

heidi.patalano@metro.us

Dr. Stirling Silverman's tips for apocalypse preparedness: What to stockpile first and why

1. Water
"Have some bottled water or larger containers of water in storage. Also: water filters. Say you have to get water out of a lake — you don't want to use that for drinking. You might also want to make preparations for collecting rainwater."

2. Food storage
"You should have at least enough at home to last — depending on what your philosophy is — a few weeks. Some people, like me, have at least a year's supply of food."

3. Utilities
"Think about the things that you get from the local government that you need — like utilities, electricity. The first things you want to take care of are the things you need the most."

Doomed!

Does Silverman think there's any hope for urbanites to survive?
"No, I really don't. Just being frank with you. Even if you are a survivalist and you put a lot of stuff away, do you really want to be in a densely populated area with thousands of people who haven't prepared? They're going to be hungry and they're not going to hesitate to try to take your stuff. I think that's another reason why you need to be armed. But even in the city, I don't think you could be armed enough to fight off the potential hoards. So no, I don't really hold out much hope for people in the city."

5 Films to catch in theaters this weekend

2 'Our Idiot Brother'
Who wouldn't want Paul Rudd for a brother? Even if he plays a mischief-making hippie who couch-surfs through the apartments of his three sisters with complicated lives, unintentionally throwing everything into chaos, we'd still take him.

3 'Don't Be Afraid of the Dark'
Prepare to get spooked by the whispering voices of the rat-like homunculi, who inhabit a sealed-off space in an old home. When a young family moves in to renovate it, inquisitive young Sally (Bailee Madison) may be lured into their trap. Horror master Guillermo Del Toro wrote and produced this eerie tale co-starring Katie Holmes.

Must-see

'Columbiana'

1 From the writers that created last year's heart-stopping action-thriller "Taken" comes another tale of violent retribution. This time Zoe Saldana avenges the murder of her parents by a Columbian drug lord.

4 'Fright Night'
In the remake of the classic 1985 film "Fright Night," Colin Farrell plays the smoldering vampire Jerry, who lives next door to a high school senior (Anton Yelchin) who vows to take him out.

5 'Conan the Barbarian'
Comic-book season is winding down, but here's one last treat: Jason Momoa plays the ancient hero out to avenge his slain father. METRO

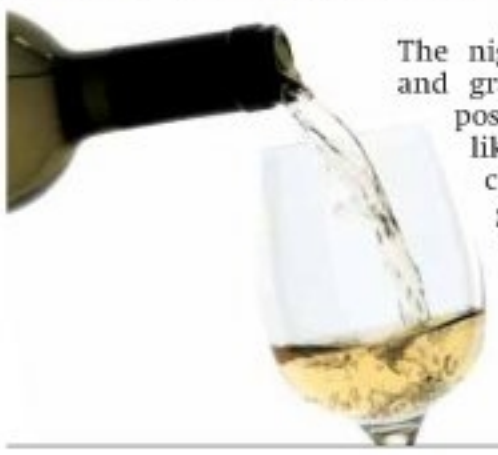
Would you like wine with that?

Plenty of fast foods work just fine with a glass of vino Expert pairing picks, from nuggets to burritos



The nights you give up and grab Chipotle in a post-work fog are, likely, the nights you could really use a glass of wine. But what can you pair with fast food? Well, surprisingly, quite a bit, according to Gregory Dal Piaz, editor-in-chief of wine website Snooth.com.

"Every so often, you eat at McDonald's — the kids want it or something and it's the easiest thing to do — and there's no reason you can't have a decent glass of wine with it," he says. "And because fast food is not that intensely flavored, it seems to go well with wines that can stand up to the acidity in the food."

We checked in for some unconventional pairing tips.

Fried chicken

"With fried chicken [or] chicken nuggets, to overcome the greasiness, you're definitely looking for something crispy and fruity and lightweight — maybe a pinot grigio or unoaked chardonnay," says Dal Piaz. But the rules change once bacon is involved, such as with McDonald's Chicken BLT: "All the oaky, smoky stuff goes great with the bacon."

Burgers

For plainer, meaty burgers, Dal Piaz recommends simple reds with big flavors, such as a grenache blend or a cotes du rhone. But, he points out, popular burgers such as the Whopper and Big Mac are really more like sandwiches, with just as many toppings and sauces to consider as the meat. "A chardonnay actually works well with these burgers," he says. "They have a grilled smoky flavor, and chardonnays have a creamy, oaky taste that mirrors it, and there are no tannins to fight the burger."

Mexican

When it comes to Chipotle, wine pairings aren't as much of a stretch — Dal Piaz actually enjoyed finding matches for the chain's veggie burrito. "The food just has a lot more going on. There are a lot of things you can play off. When you take a second bite, it's not always identical."

For Chipotle and other spicy fast fare, he recommends a wine that's low in tannins with some sweetness and enough acidity to fight off the oils, such as Riesling or Lambrusco. "Bubbles and spice are always a lot of fun," he adds.

MONICA WEYMOUTH
monica.weymouth@metro.us

The golden rule

If you like it, drink it. "Ultimately, it's all about what you like," advises Dal Piaz. "You can't blindly follow some dude on the Internet."

back to campus

Back to campus in

For students heading back to Penn, Drexel and University of the Sciences, the area's best going out options, plus a couple for when you're staying in ▶ Urban Outfitter's UCity outpost has plenty of cute fixes for generic dorm rooms in their second-floor apartment section.

RICARD LARMA/METRO

College bar upgrades
It wouldn't be University City without 50-cent drink night. But when you're looking for more than a hangover, Tria Wine Room (3131 Walnut St.) serves up a small but painstakingly thorough menu of wines, cheeses and beers. And while New Deck Tavern (3408 Sansom St.) does have your sorority sister standards — karaoke, quizzo, Miller Lite, in no particular order — it's also a surprisingly good dinner option with top-notch bartenders.

If your parents are in town
Not picking up the bill? Introduce mom and dad to Jose Garces' hidden Cira Centre outpost, JG Domestic (2929 Arch St.), or Stephen Starr's still-kicking Pod (3636 Sansom St.). For a less flashy but just as impressive night, check out the trendy-quaint RX (4443 Spruce St.) or Marigold Kitchen (501 S. 45th St.), both hidden among West Philly rowhouses.

Think outside the Starbucks

University City has plenty of cozy coffee nooks.

Neighborhood mainstay Green Line Cafe (4239 Baltimore Ave., 4426 Locust St. and 3649 Lancaster Ave.) strikes the perfect balance of reliable coffee, tasty snacks and people-watching, while the newer Lovers & Madmen (28 S. 40th St.) has won over an audience with their coveted Counter Culture beans. Further west, Satellite Cafe (701 S. 50th St.) is sweeter than their vegan anarchist brownies would lead you to believe.

For when it's time to (dinner) party
Fresh Grocer is impressive as far as campus grocery stores go, but the area also offers great organic and specialty ingredients if you know where to find them. The Clark Park Farmers Market sets up shop on Thursdays and Saturdays with produce, cheeses and meats — not to mention chocolates and baked goods — from local farmers and artisans. Down the avenue, Milk & Honey Market (45th St. and Baltimore Ave.) sells the honey they harvest from urban apiaries, in addition to gourmet groceries and cafe fare.

Late-night survival secret
Look, California Pizza (3231 Powleton Ave.) isn't exactly the slice you parade home to mom on Christmas break. But she is reliable, she is cheap and she is open later than most year-round (delivery until 2 a.m. on the weekends, 12:30 during the week). Don't you ever, ever take her for granted.

there's a lot to look forward to ◗ Our picks for some of ◗ And no, we didn't forget about you, Temple students

Temple tips

Although Temple University is slightly off the beaten path of Philadelphia, it has its fair share of entertainment for students.

Bars

Temple students can usually be found at one of three bars near campus: Pub Webb, The Draught Horse and Maxi's. The first two are conveniently located almost next door to one another, on Cecil B. Moore between Broad and 16th streets. Draught Horse appeals as more of a restaurant, and has a more parent-friendly environment. Pub Webb, on the other hand, is filled with students drinking and dancing on the cheap.

Food trucks

Some of the best of the food trucks are the Sexy Green Truck (12th and Montgomery streets) and the Creperie (13th and Norris streets), locally known as the Crepe Truck. Students constantly rush across campus during the 10-minute break between classes to get a crepe from the truck, which blasts rock while the men inside roll out crepes for under $5. YOTAM DROR

A survival guide to off-campus moving

It's that time again — back-to-school season. According to the U.S. National Center for Education Statistics, 19.7 million students are enrolled in college this year and many of them are choosing to live off-campus.

However, along with RAs and shared bathrooms, those student-helpers wearing neon T-shirts and offering dollies, snacks and reserved parking are also a thing of the past. Yep, you're on your own for moving day this year. Here are a few survival tips to help you (and your parents) get through the most dreaded day of the year.

▶ Moving day is never fun — but it doesn't have to be a nightmare, either. For tips, visit www.educationoption.com.

CASSANDRA GARRISON
cassandra.garrison@metro.us

Top 3 tips

1 Consider furniture rental
No more bunk beds and wooden desks — you're on your own to furnish your off-campus housing. Splitting furniture costs with roommates can be tricky when the lease is up and you have to decide who takes what. Furniture rental could also cut down on moving expenses by eliminating the need for a moving truck.

2 Take pictures
Assuming you inspected the place before signing the lease, you also need to take photos before filling it with your stuff. Welcome to the world of landlords! You don't want to get charged for damage you didn't cause and robbed of your security deposit down the road.

3 Be patient
There's a lot going on during move-in day. Traffic, heat, negotiating furniture arrangement with other roommates — it's a jungle out there! Just remember you're all in this together. And be extra kind to your parents. They're there to help, and saying goodbye isn't always easy.

The Yelp guide to UCity food trucks

Magic Carpet
36th and Spruce streets
The daily specials or the "meals" (over rice and veg with a pita) are the way to go. Snag a lavender seltzer out of the ice, grab a sunny bench on Penn's beautiful campus (I like to sit by the big button for particularly good people watching) and nosh your way to Nirvana. MEGAN M.

Honest Tom's
33rd and Arch streets
Eggs, fresh guacamole, sausage, crispy potatoes, soft flour tortilla and two big bottles of hot sauce— nothing says good morning better than Tom's breakfast tacos. Each ingredient is fresh and made with care, making a combination of heavy ingredients taste light and guilt-free. ANNIE C.

KoJa
38th and Sansom streets
The singular reason to go to Koja: bulgogi steak sandwiches. Your choice of beef, chicken or spicy pork with sauteed veggies and cheese. At $3 each, these are a steal. Sure, they're a bit on the smallish side to stand alone as a full lunch, but what do you expect for $3? At that price, you can afford to be a fatty and get two. MELISSA W.

Cucina Zapata
31st and Ludlow streets
Friend told me about a new taco truck, and since it was only a few minutes from where we worked, I couldn't say no! While he raved about the chicken satay taco and the Thai taco, I went with the chicken katsu. What a steal for $5! Lots of rice, and the chicken katsu has just enough of that famous brown sauce. Will definitely have to try the tacos next, and all their menu items. Yay for yummy food trucks! JENNIFER N.

This small cart serves up some of the best, if not the best, standard Mexican fare that won't go too hard on your wallet but will keep you full through your lunch hour and even into your afternoon classes. But don't take my word for it: Ask the hordes of UPenn students and Philly locals who can be found standing or sitting around the cart every weekday during lunch. BARRETT L.

The Nazis in our midst?

RE: "TEA PARTY IS THE ANSWER": I can't believe an educated person would make such comparisons to a Nazi. That is the problem, teabaggers: You are the ones trying to control the media; Palin, Bachmann and Paul are the liars.
BRIAN GRAU, VIA E-MAIL

Mr. DuPont feels that the Tea Party is the answer? If he's correct, the question must have been "What do you call a gaggle of science-denying, hypocritical bigots who dream of a land populated and governed solely by people like themselves?"
MIKE CAVALLONE, VIA E-MAIL

The citation of Goebbels in support of the Tea Party is most appropriate and ironic. Do you know what the Nazis did? They fostered hatred against a democratically elected government during a time of economic depression. They scapegoated and persecuted the poor, sick and elderly in order to monopolize control of their country. Does this sound like any group you know of? Germany bought into the mantra of hatred just as you have.
ROBERT SMITH, VIA E-MAIL

How long can we blame W.?

As I sit here reading all the pro-Obama letters and anti-Tea Party ones, I have to laugh at the hypocrisy. The Obamamaniacs that blame Bush for everything from the state of the economy to the coming hurricane fail to admit that Obama increased the national debt by four times. His healthcare bill, sold to save us from medical cost doom, was shot down as unconstitutional. Time to pull up your big-boy pants, Mr. President, or the next president will be inheriting your mess.
JOHN CROWLEY, VIA E-MAIL

Quit punishing hard workers

RE: "BUFFETT HATERS MISS THE POINT": Why is anyone who disagrees with the socialist left in this country branded as a hater? Flora Huang should focus her attention on the massive and unconscionable inefficiencies in state and federal governments vs. higher taxes on hard-working Americans.
MARK BARBEE, VIA E-MAIL

Earthquakes: They just are

RE: "SHAKEN": Stop getting caught up in the "theory" of earthquakes. That's just more crazy science talk. Next thing you know, scientists will be talking about a "theory" of air pollution.
SARAH JANE VAUGHAN, VIA E-MAIL

Horoscope

♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. You're usually more secure doing things along traditional lines, rather than toying with new methods or procedures. However, you could learn something new by going out on a limb a bit.
♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. You might feel that doing things the usual way is boring; and even though you're yearning to try something different, you'll stick by tradition.
♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. Don't be surprised if some sparks fly in a relationship that you've been treating rather casually. It's merely that you'll finally be seeing someone for the wonderful person he or she is.
♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. If you're not quite sure how to accomplish a big job using the new way that everybody is trying, stick to the slower but proven method.
♒ Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. Although you're likely to be rather fortunate financially right now, don't take any wild gambles. And when you do make a significant outlay, be sure to investigate every aspect first.
♓ Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. Even if the unexpected might annoy and frustrate you, when it comes to investments you aren't likely to be tripped up. But don't go hog wild.
♈ Aries March 21-April 19. Without even trying, you're likely to be the one who can easily influence others. Use this power to encourage someone you love to better themselves.
♉ Taurus April 20-May 20. You should pay attention to your behavior toward others, to your tone of voice and what you have to offer. You can make a good, lasting impression when you use your talents.
♊ Gemini May 21-June 20. Be flexible and willing to do things the way others want them handled, even if you have to depart from your preferred methods. Who knows, you might find a new way of doing something.
♋ Cancer June 21-July 22. Stand by your old pal rather than side with someone new when trying to resolve an issue or make a decision. Loyalty is more important than whose thinking is better or worse.
♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. Try not to be too easygoing with your funds. You are likely to be amazed by how much mileage you can get out of your dollars when you're more careful than usual about your spending.

Dog day afternoon: Phillies fall to Mets

Mistakes, missed opportunities cost Phils in 7-4 loss ◗ Kendrick tagged with loss despite just two earned runs ◗ Team strands 12 base-runners ◗ Still own best record in baseball

Kyle Kendrick drove the pace car in the longest game played at Citizens Bank Park this season.

Kendrick (7-6) threw out the first pitch at 1:08 p.m. Two minutes later, he should have been sitting pretty with two outs.

Instead, a botched double play by fill-in shortstop Michael Martinez led to a four-run first inning for the Mets. New York rode that momentum to a 7-4 victory yesterday over the Phillies. Time of game: 3 hours, 41 minutes.

"Just one of those days, that first inning was tough," said Kendrick, who took the loss despite giving up just two earned runs. "You got to shake it off."

Martinez misplayed a sharply hit grounder from Ruben Tejada in the first. That lone miscue led to four unearned runs, punctuated by a three-run blast from Nick Evans.

"Martinez was trying to make a play and he didn't do it," Kendrick said. "Nine out of 10 times those guys make the play."

Martinez might be the scapegoat, but the Phillies left 12 men on base and went 3-for-13 with runners in scoring position.

Hunter Pence flied out with the bases loaded in the second, then they stranded Carlos Ruiz at third base in the third after the catcher stole his first bag since 2009. In the ninth, the Phillies had the tying run at the plate, in Ruiz, but he grounded out to end the game.

"We couldn't get a big hit," Charlie Manuel said. "We left runners on base, especially early in the game. Mistakes like that can definitely cost you."

GETTY IMAGES

▶ Mets catcher Josh Thole tries to calm Placido Polanco down in the sixth inning. Polanco had a heated exchange with Mets starter Mike Pelfrey, who thought Polanco leaned into a pitch.

Starter problem?

Kendrick said last week that he'd prefer to be in the rotation. But, with Cole Hamels returning, he is the odd man out again. So, does he still want to start?

"I've answered that before. I'm not going to talk about that," Kendrick said. "Any other questions?"

Kendrick also noted, "I'll do whatever they ask me to do. It's been a good year so far ... just keep it going for myself personally."

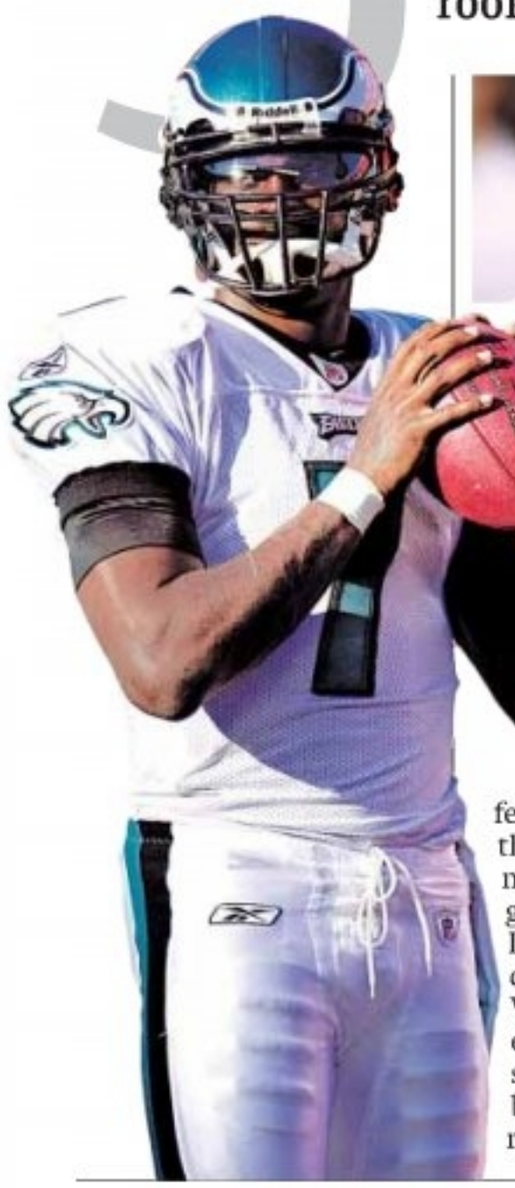
3 Things to watch against the Browns

Keep an eye on Michael Vick, the secondary and the rookie kicker ◗ Game time: tonight, 7:30 ◗ On TV: 6ABC



1 Mirage or reality?

Michael Vick is coming off an abysmal three-interception performance last week in Pittsburgh. Was it a mirage or reality?

Personally, we feel it was a mirage, or the direct result of a masterful defensive game plan from Dick LeBeau. However, it does bear noting that Vick has now thrown eight picks in his last seven games, dating back to the 2010 regular season.

2 A new safety valve for the defense

Forget the linebackers. Free safety Nate Allen was atrocious against the Steelers. Earlier this week, he revealed that he is less than 100 percent as he deals with knee tendonitis.

Jarrad Page gets the start tonight. Page has had a great camp and preseason, so this could be his audition to be the Week 1 starter.

3 Kicking the habit on special teams

Believe it or not, the Eagles have a lot riding on the leg of Alex Henery.

The rookie kicker has shown he can boot it a mile, but accuracy — and the pressure of connecting in tight NFL games — could be an issue. He's 2-for-2 (from 24 and 35 yards) in the preseason, while he's sent all five of his kickoffs into the end zone. MIKE GREGER

1 There's a good chance Peyton Manning (neck surgery) won't be available to start the Colts' season opener Sept. 11 at Houston. Just in case, Indy reached a contract agreement with veteran Kerry Collins yesterday.

2 The Tennessee Titans don't have a deal with holdout RB Chris Johnson, but yesterday's meeting between the sides was "beneficial," GM Mike Reinfeldt said. More talks will be held in the coming days.

3 Chiefs LB Brandon Siler suffered a torn Achilles tendon this week, ending his season before it started. Siler had been competing for the starting MLB job in K.C.

Catches-per-touchdown for Kenny Britt during his first two seasons. Now that Matt Hasselbeck is in town and Britt is a starter, he's a threat for 12-plus scores. Well worth the risks.

Losers: NFL training camp stock watch

The stock of these three players is falling as we approach the heart of fantasy drafting season:

1 Peyton Manning, QB, IND — Manning is in real danger of missing Week 1 due to his neck injury. He is also 35 and his No. 1 receiver has lost a step. Look elsewhere.

2 Daniel Thomas, RB, MIA — Reggie Bush has been installed as the starter and the Dolphins are even kicking the tires on a washed up Larry Johnson. That's because Thomas has done little to impress in camp and is poised for a bit role to start the season.

3 Roy Williams, WR, CHI — Williams showed up to camp out of shape, dropping passes and failing to get open. In other words, Mike Martz can't save him. There's no reason to think he'll succeed in Chicago.

▶ Lance Moore's arrow is pointing way up on the heels of a big training camp and Reggie Bush's departure.

It's the 12th round and you're on your 11th beer. After hemming and hawing for 30 seconds, you just throw out a name you know: Brett Favre! Ugh.

The final few picks of your draft must not be throwaways. We need to build depth and take shots on players that have high ceilings. Here are the best fliers with average draft positions of 110 or higher:

Sir Lance

Drew Brees begged for the Saints to retain Lance Moore in free agency and they did just that. Now that Reggie Bush is gone, there are more slot targets for Moore, and he's reportedly having the best training camp of any New Orleans receiver.

Law firm issues

Third-round rookie RB Stevan Ridley has been the star of the preseason so far, going over 100 total yards in two straight games. BenJarvus Green-Ellis is far from an elite talent, so Ridley could very well get his shot as soon as this season. And if the "Law Firm" were to get injured, Ridley would have big upside as the clear goal-line back.

Cook on site

The only reason Jared Cook still has an ADP of 158.9 is because no one knows who he is. After the public gets a look at his freakish talent and major role in the offense, that will change. Cook is a good bet to lead the Titans in receptions and seize top-10 tight end value by the end of the year.

New worldwide trends

There's a boatload of new fashion concepts to choose from this fall Work with one or layer them up, almost anything goes That makes for fun dressing, but means nightmare shopping trips Before you hit the mall, check out this guide for navigating your options

▶ Prada welcomes back the A-line.

Shapes

The '60s are the new '70s

Sixties-flavored A-line dresses, skirts and coats ruled the runways for collections such as Prada, Burberry Prorsum and Fendi, replacing all of those floaty '70s looks you coveted last fall. Even trousers have a new feel to them in cigarette shapes with higher hemlines. Not that all of this is bad news for those who invested heavily in the Studio 54 look, though. That trend is still relevant, too.

▶ Polka dots are spot-on at Marc Jacobs.

Prints

Polka dots and stars are the new stripes

Last season, it was all about stripes. But this fall, polka dots and stars take the prize for the trendiest print. Thank Marc Jacobs, Stella McCartney and Topshop Unique for all the spots you're seeing in the shops, while Dolce & Gabbana are behind all those dresses covered in Milky Way twinkles that you've been seeing on the red carpet. If you don't feel like committing to either print from head to toe, use a spotted shoe or bag to add a pop to your closet.

▶ Layer the sparkles like Dolce & Gabbana.

Extras

Maximal is the new minimalism

Embellished to the max in crystals and glitter (Dolce & Gabbana) or patchwork (Fendi), details and ornamentation are suddenly very important. As seen on just about every runway, more is definitely more this season. And if you're feeling really adventurous, combine them all in a single outfit and own it.

Samsung reveals new Android smartphones and naming scheme

Samsung has revealed a slew of new Android Gingerbread smartphones, all named under the new naming scheme which should make it easier to discern which phone does what by looking at the name alone.

Now, when you hear about a Samsung Galaxy phone, this is what the letters following "Galaxy" in the name mean: S means "Super Smart" and denotes a flagship device, while R stands for "Royal" or "Refined" and denotes a premium model, just below the S class. W stands for "Wonder," which translates to a high-quality, mid-level device; M means "Magical" and denotes a mid- to low-level smartphone, while Y stands for "Young," meaning an entry-level device.

Samsung is playing the name game.

Additionally, Pro indicates the device includes a physical QWERTY keyboard, Plus means the device is an upgrade from an existing model, while LTE means that the device supports Long-Term Evolution standard, which enables very fast data transfer.

This makes our job easier. If we tell you that Samsung has released four new Android smartphones — Galaxy W, Galaxy M Pro, Galaxy Y and Galaxy Y Pro — you already know what that means, right?

We'll add some details, though: The Galaxy W sports a respectable 1.4 GHz Processor, HSDPA connectivity and a 3.7 touch screen. Samsung hasn't revealed the precise specs of the other three devices, except a couple of tidbits here and there.

All the devices will be officially unveiled at the IFA trade show held in Berlin from Sept. 2-7.

LG mouse doubles as a scanner

LG has released a new mouse called LSM-100, and it doubles as a fully functioning scanner capable of recognizing characters.

The laser mouse has two buttons and a wheel — but what makes it special is the Smart Scan button on the left side of the mouse. Hold it and the mouse can scan page sizes up to A3 and save them as several file types.

Since the LSM-100 is equipped with LG's Optical Character Recognition technology, it can also convert scanned text into an editable Microsoft Word document. MASHABLE

Starbucks tops restaurant Facebook logins

Starbucks is the eatery Facebook users check in to most, according to a report from the social-networking giant. With about 17,000 locations, Starbucks's ubiquity no doubt works in its favor; but the list also shows that smaller players can upset industry titans. Case in point: Buffalo Wild Wings, which has around 700 outlets, was higher on the list than McDonald's and its 32,000 or so global locations. The list in full:

1. Starbucks
2. Buffalo Wild Wings
3. Chili's
4. Applebee's
5. McDonald's
6. IHOP
7. Denny's
8. Olive Garden
9. T.G.I. Friday's
10. The Cheesecake Factory. TODD WASSERMAN FOR MASHABLE
